TO QUINTILIAN

(MARTIAL 2.90)

Translated

BY RALPH MARCELLINO

West Hempstead (N.Y.) High School

O famous curb of wayward youth,
Rome's most renowned civilian,
Forgive my hastening to live
Before I've made my million—
I poor enough and plenty strong
To keep on working right along.

One can't begin to live too soon!
Let him defer it who has
Grand designs of marble halls
Crammed with works by Scopas,
And who desires even more
Than his father had before.

For me enough's a fireplace,
A home that does not mind
The smoke, a spring, a plot of ground,
A maid, a wife the kind
Not overlearned, dreamless nights,
And days devoid of legal fights.

You are invited to visit the Service Bureau headquarters on the Miami University campus during the Latin Institute, June 21-23.
